[Reasons for Non-compliance with the Principles of Japan’s Corporate Governance Code] Update

The following statements are based on Japan’s Corporate Governance Code revised in June 2021. (Some of the principles for the Prime Market to be applied from April 2022 are omitted.)

[Supplementary Principle 4.1.3] Specific plans regarding successorship of the CEO and other top executives Although the Company does not prepare specific plans regarding successorship with respect to the CEO and other top executives at this point in time, its management does recognize the notion that bringing up the next generation of top management is one of the highest management priorities that must be addressed in order for the Company to achieve sustainable growth and increase corporate value over the medium to long term. As such, we implement training programs for our mid-career executives and others, and are furthermore taking steps to hasten development of management skills by engaging in initiatives that address business challenges, with the aim of cultivating the next generation of senior managers who will spearhead the organization’s sustainable growth and development. Going forward, the Board of Directors will appropriately supervise efforts that include those of developing our next generation of senior managers with its sights set on increasing our corporate value over the medium to long term based on the deliberations and recommendations of the Nominating and Remuneration Advisory Committee, a majority of whose members are Independent Outside Directors.

[Supplementary Principle 4.2.1] Management remuneration system linking remuneration to financial results over the medium to long term

The Company makes decisions regarding Director remuneration upon having considered factors that include business results relative to specific positions of the Directors. We strive to ensure that management's remuneration functions as a healthy incentive for generating sustainable growth. To such ends, when it comes to remuneration mechanisms that better link management remuneration to medium-to long-term business results and shareholder value going forward, the Board of Directors will consider factors that include the necessity of such mechanisms and objective and transparent procedures, based on the deliberations and recommendations of the Nominating and Remuneration Advisory Committee, a majority of whose members are Independent Outside Directors.

[Principle 1.4] Cross-shareholdings

The Company maintains cross-shareholdings based on the view that doing so helps it to maintain and develop favorable business relationships while also enabling it to maintain stable financing relationships. We accordingly hold stock deemed to help increase our corporate value, and the Board of Directors regularly assesses holdings with respect to the medium- to long-term economic rationale of such holdings, the status of transactions, and other such factors. Based on such policy, we act to reduce holdings if we find there to be an absence of rationale for maintaining such holdings. We appropriately exercise our voting rights upon comprehensively placing consideration on factors that include how the outcome might affect sound management of the issuing company and enhancement of its corporate value over the medium to long term.

[Principle 1.7] Related party transactions

When conducting related party transactions, we appropriately engage procedures with respect to the Board of Directors and disclose such matters in our securities reports and other such documents. We subject all Officers of the Company (including officers of the Kotobuki Spirits Group (the "Group")) to surveys regarding related party transactions, and monitor such activity. When it comes to transactions within the Group, we strive to ensure compliance with our "Regulations on Affiliate Management" which forbid any such transaction that would be detrimental to the interests of either party.

[Supplementary Principle 2.4.1] Ensuring diversity in the promotion to core human resources

(i) Policies on ensuring diversity

The Group recognizes that promoting diversity in workstyles and employment, such as by securing human resources who have diverse perspectives and encouraging their active participation, is one of the highest management priorities that must be addressed in order for the Group to achieve sustainable growth and increase corporate value over the medium to long term.

The Group is working on the following measures to ensure diversity.

- Hiring professional human resources and foreign nationals through midcareer hires
- Advancing workstyle reforms and health and productivity management

- Changing the management's mindset on diversity

(ii) Voluntary and measurable goals for ensuring diversity

- Promoting female employees to managerial positions

While the ratio of female employees in managerial positions was 10.3% as of March 31, 2021, the Group believes it is extremely beneficial to leverage distinctive perspectives of women in management given the Group's business. The Group will continue to actively promote competent female employees, including midcareer hires, to managerial positions, with the aim of increasing the ratio of female managers to 30%.

- Promoting midcareer hires to managerial positions

The Group has actively hired professional human resources in departments such as product development, production technology, online marketing, IT, and overseas business in line with the expansion of its business, resulting in the ratio of midcareer hires in managerial positions of approximately 60% as of March 31, 2021. Going forward, the Group will further focus on the promotion of new graduate hires to managerial positions through enhancement of human resource development, while also recruiting managers through midcareer hires as needed for business development to maintain a good balance.

- Promoting foreign nationals to managerial positions

Commensurate with the expansion and development of the overseas business and the domestic business targeting inbound tourists, the Group will hire foreign nationals and promote them to managerial positions as appropriate upon considering the strategic needs and other factors.

(iii) Status of securing diversity

For the status of the promotion of female employees, midcareer hires, and foreign nationals to managerial positions, refer to the ESG data disclosed on the sustainability page of the Company's website.

The Group is also promoting the development of an environment in which senior human resources over 60 years old can participate more actively through revisions to the continued employment system for employees past the retirement age.

[Principle 2.6] Roles of corporate pension funds as asset owners

Whereas Company and some of its consolidated subsidiaries previously enrolled in an employee’s pension fund for companies in Tottori Prefecture’s food industry, that fund was dissolved per approval of Japan’s Minister of Health, Labour and Welfare granted on March 25, 2016. The Company has no corporate pension funds under management at this time.

Going forward, to further enhance objectiveness and transparency of the procedures to appoint and decide on senior management and Director candidates, we will seek advice from the Nominating and Remuneration Advisory Committee, a majority of whose members are Independent Outside Directors.
- (v) Individual appointments and dismissal of the senior management and nominations of Director candidates by the Board of Directors
The Company’s Notifications of General Meeting of Shareholders disclose details upon appointment of senior management and nomination of Director candidates by the Board of Directors. Such details include career profiles of Director candidates in relation to their individual appointments and nominations, and reasons for appointment and career profiles of all Director candidates. In the event that the Company deems there to be objective grounds for dismissing a senior manager or Director amid a scenario where the Company finds, for instance, that the senior manager or Director has significantly damaged the Company’s corporate value upon having violated laws, regulations, the Articles of Incorporation, etc., the Board of Directors will resolve to remove the senior manager or Director upon having appropriately engaged in exhaustive deliberations in a meeting of the Board of Directors attended by the Independent Outside Directors.
