[Reasons for Non-compliance with the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code]

The Company has implemented all of the principles of the Corporate Governance Code.

[Disclosure Based on the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code]

[Principle 1-3] Basic strategy for capital policy

The Company strives to achieve sustainable growth and enhance corporate value over the medium to long term while maintaining and strengthening a sound financial position.

We will invest in projects that will contribute to improving safety and service in the railways business, and expand value-added investments business and purchases related to the condominium unit business in the real estate business. In addition, we will promote Shinjuku Station Southwest Exit area development plan. With regard to financing, in light of the characteristics of the Company's mainstay railway business, the Company will maintain financial discipline, focusing on long-term debt (bonds payable and long-term borrowings). With an eye on planned large-scale development projects in the future, we have set interest-bearing debt, net interest-bearing debt/EBITDA multiple, and equity ratio as management target indicators. Given the highly public nature of the railway business, which the Company positions as a core business, the Company considers it vital to secure business continuity in its capital policy.

For that reason, in preparation for continuing business operations by swiftly restoring services in the event of a disaster, etc., and to fulfill our responsibilities on our own resources, we post general reserve in its capital.

With regard to shareholder returns, the Company pays dividends by following its basic policy of returning profits to shareholders by taking into account business performance, etc., while enhancing internal reserves necessary to strengthen the management base to prepare for future business development and changes in the business environment.

[Principle 1-4] Cross-shareholdings

The Company engages in business of a highly public nature, primarily the railway business, and considers it important to grow based on a mid- to long-term perspective. For that reason, it holds the shares of other companies when it has been determined that such holding will contribute to the Group's business continuity and enhancement of its corporate value.

With an aim to reduce the Company's holdings to less than 10% of the consolidated net assets in the medium-term period, the shares that are held are comprehensively examined from both qualitative and quantitative perspectives. The former includes how the possession contributes to stable business operations and potentially maintains and strengthens business relationships, and the latter includes risks of share price fluctuations and cost of capital. If, as a result of such examination, the Company determines that the holding of such shares is neither worthwhile nor economically rational, it will consider the sale of these shares, and will work to reduce the number of shares held.

The Board of Directors verifies every year, based on the Company's standards for holding listed shares, whether the listed shares held carry significance in terms of business continuity and improvement of corporate value.

In addition, in the exercise of voting rights, from the perspective of raising corporate value over the mid- to long-term, and after verifying on an individual basis that there will be no significant damage to shareholder value, we will make an overall decision to approve or disapprove.

[Principle 1-7] Related party transactions

With regard to Directors' competing transactions, and transactions involving conflicts of interest, the Company, pursuant to laws and regulations, approves upon confirming the details of the transaction at the Board of Directors' meeting, and reports following the transaction.

In addition, with regard to transactions, etc. made between the Company or its consolidated subsidiaries and officers, or those with close relationships to such officers, the Company performs regular confirmation of the existence of such transactions.

[Supplementary principle 2-4-1] Ensuring diversity in the core human resources

The Company has set forth the Keio Group Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DE&I) Declaration, and has formulated the necessary human resources and the organization that should be in place in order to accomplish our current Medium-Term Management Plan of achieving a drastic business structure reform adaptable to the post-COVID-19 society while preserving the values of safety and security, and, to secure such human resources and organization, set the following human resource strategy as our policy on human resources development, including ensuring diversity of human resources and policy on establishing the internal environment.

<Organizational culture & structure>

Form an organizational culture that permits people to take on challenges and tolerates failure, and build an organization that promotes transformation and implementation with a sense of urgency.

Toward the realization of the organization that should be in place, a group that tolerates individual diversity and mutually functions, the Company proactively engages in advancing work life balance, promoting women's advancement, and creating a workplace where diverse human resources can play active roles. As for promotion of women's advancement, currently, many female employees have been playing active roles in various fields, including as presidents of Group companies. In order to continuously secure women in managerial positions in the future, we will work to increase the ratio of female hires to form a candidate group that can be promoted to managerial positions, as well as promote the establishment of the internal environment in which more diverse human resources can play active roles. In addition, we have set a target of increasing the percentage of female new graduates hired for career-track positions to 50%, starting from fiscal 2024, the percentage of women in managerial positions to 30% by fiscal 2030, and the percentage of male and female employees taking childcare leave to 100% each.

- Ratio of female managers: Target 30% by fiscal 2030, Results 9.7% in fiscal 2023
- Ratio of employees taking childcare leave: Target 100% for both female and male employees, Results 92.9% with female employees, 114.9% with male employees

[Views on human resources development]

In light of the fact that the Group engages in a variety of businesses, we develop human resources with expertise and experience in the respective fields which are essential to the achievement of management strategies. In addition, we have a system in place to identify employees' career preferences and a system that allows them to change their career on their own, thereby supporting their autonomous career development.

[Implementation status of establishing internal environment]

We promote diverse work styles, including the establishment of satellite offices and teleworking system, and the introduction of flextime system with no core hours while establishing a rehiring system for employees who left the Company regardless of the reason for their resignation, and changing retirement age from 60 to 65 to establish an environment where outstanding employees can continue to work longer. In addition, we work to establish an environment where employees with diverse values can continue to play active roles by continuously improving the work environment through regular monitoring of engagement scores of employees and implementation of measures.

It has been 18 years since the Nomination and Compensation Committee of the Company was established. As an advisory body to the Board of Directors, the Committee, in the process of deliberation on the nomination of and compensation for Directors, respects the opinions of Independent Outside Directors who are its members. The Committee submits its opinions on draft nomination and compensation plans after obtaining the approval of all members.

The Company believes that the independence and authorities of the Committee are clearly established for the role it plays in the deliberation on nomination and compensation.

[Supplementary principle 4-11-1] Views on the balance between knowledge, experience and skills of Directors as a whole, and on diversity and appropriate scale

In order to make appropriate management decisions as a business company, the Company considers it vital that persons well versed in each business field participate in decision making as Directors, and based on this belief, appoints full-time Directors and part-time Directors who serve concurrently as presidents of major Group companies.

In addition to the aforementioned Directors, the Company appoints Outside Directors who have experience and insights as corporate managers at major financial institutions or expertise in finance, accounting, and legal affairs. By having them properly perform monitoring functions, we strive to strengthen governance. [Supplementary principle 4-11-3] Ensuring effectiveness of the Board of Directors as a whole

The Company has worked to improve the effectiveness of the Board of Directors, with the goals of strengthening supervisory function of the Board of Directors and building a system that enables prompt and decisive decision making as a company with an audit and supervisory committee.

In our evaluation of the effectiveness of the Board of Directors, we conduct an anonymous web-based survey prepared by the secretariat. The Governance Committee analyzes and assesses the survey results and quantitative information such as the operational status, and reports its findings to the Board of Directors. As a result, the Company recognizes that the effectiveness of the Board of Directors of the Company is ensured. Note that the Governance Committee is a voluntary advisory body to the Board of Directors, which is composed of members that include Outside Directors.

The survey is to evaluate the Board of Directors on a four-level grading scheme in terms of “composition,” “operation,” “deliberation,” “decision-making and supervisory function” “support system by the secretariat of the Board of Directors,” and “individual director’s contributions.” The survey also asks respondents to provide reasons for their answers to help us identify issues proactively. In fiscal 2023, an open-ended item regarding strengthening the support system provided by the secretariat of the Board of Directors was added to the survey as a focused area.

For fiscal 2023, we engaged in “enhancement and strengthening of supervisory function of the Board of Directors” and “enhancement of support from the secretariat of the Board of Directors” as focused themes for measures to improve effectiveness. The balance-conscious operation of the Board of Directors and revision of approval criteria were under consideration to stimulate discussion of the Board of Directors meeting; however, we determined that these issues need further verification and discussion, and they were designated as continuing issues. Additionally, we provided opportunities for self enhancement for executives through introducing external seminars regarding the knowledge necessary for those in managerial positions.

For fiscal 2024, upholding a focused theme of “establishing a structure to discuss mid- to long-term issues to respond to environmental changes,” we will strive to further improve the effectiveness of the Board of Directors through strengthening corporate governance, securing discussion time, enhancing training for executives, etc.

[Supplementary principle 4-14-2] Training policy for Directors

The Company regularly provides Directors (including Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee Members) information about external seminars to support them to fully carry out their roles and responsibilities based on their individual experience, etc. In addition to this, ongoing training is conducted at the Company’s expense so that they can gain an understanding of economic conditions, revisions to laws, and the business environment in which the Group operates. The Company also hosts site tours to visit work areas at the forefront of the railway operation to allow Outside Directors to further deepen their understanding of the Company’s business.

[Principle 5-1] Policy for constructive dialogue with shareholders

The Company has the following organizational structures and initiatives aimed at promoting constructive dialogue with shareholders and investors.

(1) For dialogue with shareholders and investors, the Director in Charge of Finance and Information Disclosure shall have responsibility.

(2) In the conduct of dialogue, the Finance and Accounting Department with person in charge of IR will play a central role in providing assistance.

The Finance and Accounting Department acts as the Disclosure Committee’s secretariat, and collects information from the Group Business Management Department that aggregates information from Business Departments, General Administration Departments, and each Group company, in addition to the information obtained from internal meetings.

(3) As to dialogue other than individual meetings, we hold twice-yearly briefings for analysts and institutional investors. In this manner, through promoting understanding, we strive to further enhance IR activities.

(4) While reporting to the senior management in a timely manner the opinions and other comments from shareholders and investors obtained through dialogues, by conveying the contents to respective departments, we strive to properly share these opinions company-wide and reflect them to management.

(5) The Company will properly manage insider information in accordance with the internal regulation, “Regulations on Prevention of Insider Trading.”

(6) The status of dialogue with shareholders is disclosed in the Integrated Report.

In addition, the Company is determined to consistently enhance its systems and initiatives to facilitate constructive dialogues with shareholders.

[Action to achieve management that is conscious of cost of capital and stock price] (Disclosure document is available in English)

In terms of measures aimed at achieving management that is conscious of the cost of capital and the stock price, the Company recognizes that our cost of equity (COE) is 5 to 6% and considers that it is necessary for return on equity (ROE) to continuously exceed that level of COE. The Company carries out measures focusing both on “increasing ROE” and “decreasing cost of capital,” aiming to maximize the spread, and will fully commit to them in the next Medium-Term Management Plan.

Please refer to FY2023 Financial Results (Presentation) disclosed on the Company’s website for action to achieve management that is conscious of cost of capital and stock price.
