(4) Forward-Looking Information

Regarding the forward-Looking information, the outlook remains uncertain due to continuing geopolitical risks such as the prolonged Russia–Ukraine war and increasing tensions in the Middle East. In particular, the Company is unable to appropriately estimate the impact of a Strait of Hormuz blockade on production and orders. Accordingly, this impact has not been reflected in the current earnings forecast at this time.

Based on these assumptions, the Company expects consolidated revenue for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2027 to be roughly the same level as the previous fiscal year, as the decline in orders for AT (automatic transmission-related business) has somewhat eased amid a temporary slowdown in the shift to BEVs for passenger cars. In terms of profits, the Company will strive to secure profits by further promoting group-wide efforts to improve overall management efficiency, such as improving facility utilization rates and reducing overhead costs, while appropriately reflecting in selling prices any cost increases resulting from inflation and rising crude oil price.

As a result, the Company expects the revenue for the fiscal year ending March 2027 to be ¥305.0 billion (0.4% increase from this fiscal year), operating profit will be ¥24.5 billion (10.2% increase from this fiscal year), and Profit before Tax will be ¥23.0 billion (2.7% decrease from this fiscal year). Profit attributable to owners of the parent company is expected to be ¥14.0 billion (2.3% increase from this fiscal year).

The exchange rate is assumed to be ¥155 per US dollar.

2. Basic Way of Thinking Regarding to Selection of Accounting Standard
